Dimming CFLs and LEDs

Dimming saves energy while setting the right light level to improve mood and ambiance. Screw-in compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs) and screw-in light emitting diode lamps (LEDs) are a great energy-saving alternative to incandescent or halogen light sources; however, dimming them may be difficult. Lutron's new dimmers with HED™ Technology help alleviate your CFL and LED dimming challenges.

One Year Incandescent/Halogen Energy Savings Chart

dimming the lights	saves electricity	bulbs last on average	annual savings
10%	10%	3 years	$9.70
25%	20%	3-6 years	$17.30
50%	40%	10+ years	$30.00

President's Report

Welcome to the IES Cleveland Section 2010–2011 Program Year.

Our October program is the Annual IES Cleveland Section Clambake with Seminar on the Side. This event will be held at the Albion Woods Reservation in Strongsville, Ohio on Tuesday, October 12th in the evening with times and prices as indicated in the Lumen Press. We not only have the appetizing food, we also have a very special program as the main course (instead of a side) with our guest speaker Terry McGowan, FIES, LC. Terry will present "The 2010 Winners of Lighting for Tomorrow." I hope you can all attend.

Since the MLO (Model Lighting Ordinance) National Webcast is in October, near the time of our Clambake, we are going to have a guest presenter for our November Program to talk about the MLO and how it will impact our lighting designs in the future. Currently we are trying to get John Selander, the National IES President, to speak at this lunch time event. Stay tuned for the date of this important presentation.

We would like to thank Hawkins Sales for sponsoring the September IES Program "Sustainable Lighting - New Trends" presented by Bill McShane, Director of Sales for Philips Lighting Business Unit Professional Luminaires of North America.

In December, we are planning a Downtown Cleveland Lighting Walk near the square to see some of the projects designed right in our own backyard.

We would also like to thank Chris Woodman for updating the Lumen Press and website. Let us know what you think! Go online and check it out and see what's happening in the Cleveland Section.
